Why is there a need for Afterschool Programs?

---

- During the after-school hours, children and teens are more likely to become victims of violent crime than at other times
- Violence by teens peaks in the hours immediately after school (3 pm – 6 pm)
- Many teens get involved in dangerous and risky activities during the after-school hours
- Other vices: Car Accidents, Teen Pregnancy, Alcohol/Drug Abuse, Shop Lifting, Poor Academic Performance, Poor Eating Habits, and Youth Obesity

Beyond the Bell in South Carolina.....

- Twenty-four percent of South Carolina's children and youth (K-12) are responsible for taking care of themselves. These children spend an average of nearly seven hours per week unsupervised after school.
- Thirteen percent of South Carolina's children attend some sort of out-of school time program such as after school.
- On average, after school participants spend nine hours per week in after school programs. Participation averages 3.5 days per week for 1.9 hours per day.

Beyond the Bell in America.....

- More than 14 million school age children (25%) are on their own after school. Among them are more than 40,000 — kindergarteners. (America After 3 PM, May 2004)
- The parents of more than 28 million school-age children work outside the home. (U.S. Department of Labor)
- Only 6.5 million K-12 children (11%) participate in after school programs. An additional 15 million children would participate if a quality program were available in their community. (America After 3 PM, May 2004)
- 9 in 10 Americans want all children and teens to have some type of organized activity or safe place to go after school. (Election Eve Poll, November 2004)

Benefits of After School Programs

- Truancy Prevention
- Family Building
- Academic Assistance
- Drop-Out Prevention
- Assisting Working Families
- Risky Behavior Reduction
- Recreational Outlets

Q: Who shares the responsibility?

A: All Stakeholders

Q: What is the level of Investment?

A: The average cost of a quality after-school program is between $1500 and $2500 per child annually

Q: What is the long-term cost for a community's lack of response?

A: Police Chiefs, Sheriffs and Prosecutors agree that investing in after school programs would be more effective at reducing youth violence and crime than hiring more police officers or increasing punitive actions (National After School Alliance, 2006)
